

ShapingBio: engaging stakeholders towards a Sustainable Bioeconomy

Francesca Santaniello, PhD; Flavia Marucci

Introduction

ShapingBio is a 3-years EU funded project that aims to promote innovation in the European bioeconomy across sectoral, governmental and geographical levels by providing evidence-based information and recommendations for better policy alignment as well as supporting and integrating stakeholders in the bio-based sectors.

Main objectives:

Main pillars: policy and governance, applied research and technology transfer, collaboration, and financing

Main stakeholders' groups: academia, industry, public sector, civil society

Topic: HORIZON-CL6-2021-Governance-01-04 Strengthening bioeconomy innovation and deployment across sectors and all governance levels

ShapingBio approach

ShapingBio prioritizes co-creation processes to foster meaningful and inclusive stakeholder engagement in the bioeconomy sector, ensuring that underrepresented stakeholders are included in policy discussions through cross-sectoral collaborations, and public and private partnerships.

To achieve this goal, ShapingBio actively involves stakeholders in testing and validation processes, leading to high-quality recommendations for the European Commission, by implementing:

- Desk research
- Thematic workshops (in person & online)
- Validation workshops (in person & online)
- Interviews (phone & online)
- Surveys (online)
